Inactive arm

The top-left arm alone. Pure soul, no relation to matter. Jiva in its essential nature — before any turn toward ajiva. The arm exists but makes no contact with anything outside itself.

Active pairing: Top-left (Lekha)

Seven tattvas:

Jiva | Ajiva | Asrava | Bandha | Samvara | Nirjara | Moksha

Inactive arm

The bottom-right arm alone. Pure matter, no relation to soul. Lekha (top-left) and Jokha (bottom-right) sit at diagonally opposite corners — ontological opposition encoded as geometric opposition.

Active pairing: Bottom-right (Jokha)

Seven tattvas:

Jiva	Ajiva	Asrava	Bandha	Samvara	Nirjara	Moksha

Inactive arm

Top-left meets bottom-right. Soul's arm turns toward matter; matter's arm turns toward soul. The right-angle bend between them is yoga — the activity that creates the vessel. Karma now has somewhere to flow.

Inactive arm

Top-right meets bottom-left. The diagonal reverses. Matter now presses into soul rather than soul reaching toward matter. Directionality inverts — adhesion replaces influx. Karma sticks.

Inactive arm

Top-right and bottom-right: matter meeting matter. The soul steps back. Matter exhausts its own momentum. No new karma enters because no soul-face is presented toward the world.

Inactive arm

Top-left and bottom-left: soul meeting soul. The soul knows itself directly without karmic mediation. Existing karma burns away through pure self-relation — tapas. The left side completes itself.

Inactive arm

All karmic relationships dissolve. The four arms separate and fall away. What remains is the central point — the dot always present before any arm reached in any direction. Pure jiva, fully realised.

All arms dissolve - centre point (jiva) remains
